When Jan Yeonopolus gave us 12 of her daughter's T-shirts and carte blanche on the design, we were thrilled. The only requirements were that we not make the front red, white, and blue, and that we use the Purdue University fabric on the back. We loved the caramel and black fabric combinations we eventually found at Austin Sewing and Vacuum in Round Rock. They complemented the Purdue fabric. Since most of the T-shirts related to Jan's daughter Meredith Counts' band memories, we quilted a musical theme in the borders. Our talented friend B.J. Cormier personalized one of the blocks with embroidery. And we had Laurie Thomas with "It's a Quilting Thing" digitize the cute chaparrals in the sashing which we then stitched out on our Statler.
